'I won't answer to the PMO anymore'

Sitting as an independent.

Edmonton area MP explains why he quit Tory caucus

Edmonton area MP Brent Rathgeber says one reason he quit the Conservative caucus was he could no longer stomach being told what to do and say by unelected youngsters in the Prime Minister's Office.

"It's difficult as a lawyer and as a member of Parliament to find my role to be subservient to masters half my age at the Prime Minister's Office, who tell me how to vote on matters, who tell me what questions to ask of witnesses in committee, who vet my ... one-minute member statements," Rathgeber, 48, told reporters in his Edmonton-St. Albert constituency office Thursday.

"I think legislators like myself have to take a stand ... that we're not going to read these talking points that are written by PMO staffers, that we're not going to vote like trained seals."

Rathgeber announced on Twitter late Wednesday that he was quitting caucus over a lack of government transparency and other concerns.

Rathgeber also said he finds it "rich" that Andrew MacDougall, a spokesman in Harper's office, has said he should resign and run in a byelection.

"I have two other words: David Emerson. You will recall that in 2006 ... David Emerson, having just been elected days before as a Liberal, walked across the floor and joined the Conservative government.

"I'm accountable to my constituents and if I sense that my constituents are unhappy with my decision, then I'll have to deal with it. But the preliminary emails and tweets that have come into the office show anything but unhappiness."

"I'll answer to them. I won't answer to the PMO anymore."

Rathgeber is now sitting as an Independent.

He said he hasn't decided if he will run again, but said if he does it would likely be as an Independent.

Kids try to save party after alleged scam

Ross Sheppard High. Parent says kids raised $11,000 for after grad before it was stolen Kids eager for an after grad to remember. A man claiming to be a promoter who allegedly swindled students out of thousands. A race to raise funds for a new post-graduation celebration before it's too late.

The story at Ross Sheppard

High School reads like a Hollywood movie script.

According to one parent, Kathy, who asked that her last name not be published due to a police investigation, Ross Sheppard students were cheated out of the roughly $11,000 they raised for their after grad party.

Now students are reaching out to the community.

"They're pretty much trying to do good and raise enough money to put on the party that was supposed to happen the first time," said Kathy.

2014 budget proposal

New facilities driving tax hike

City ratepayers could see a five per cent hike in their tax bills next year, according to the first look at the proposed 2014 budget.

Councillors got an overview of the budget during a meeting Thursday, showing that with the need to staff new facilities and pay for projects from previous years, the city will need $58 million more next year.

Mayor Stephen Mandel said it will be hard for the city to avoid some of this increase because the new facilities need to be opened.

"If you open up three new recreation centres and four new libraries, you can't just open them up and leave nobody there," he said.

In total, the new facilities are estimated to add 251 new people to the city's payroll — among those new hires are 48 for the new NAIT LRT line, nearly 90 for two new recreation centres and 45 for a new fire station in Lewis Estates.

Coun. Kerry Diotte pleaded with administration to find more efficiencies and limit the increase to inflation, saying he had seniors call him crying about their property tax bill.

However, Coun. Don Iveson said in recent years administration had found $168 million in savings, and in doing so kept taxes 16 per cent lower.

"This idea that city staff haven't been looking for efficiencies is completely wrong."

Councillors asked administration for a report looking at options to lower the increase, which will come back in July.

Omar Mouallem
omouallem@gmail.com

As a teenager I was fascinated by Omar Khadr's story, probably more than others, as I was trying to make sense of how someone so much like me could end up so disturbed.

We did, after all, share the same first name and grew up in Canadian Muslim households. And even though we were one year and three provinces apart, had he also grown up in my small hometown we'd share the same school and mosque. Just as my parents encouraged me to hang out with the few Muslim kids around, I'm sure they'd encourage me to play with him.

How then, I wondered, did my peer become the first minor or prosecuted for war crimes in 50 years, while I was busy practising for my driver's licence?

It was naive, small-brained thinking, as Khadr's upbringing is far more complex, but with recent news that he's been transferred to a maximum security prison in Edmonton, where I now live, I find myself pondering our similarities again. Indeed, as the discourse around him has changed so much over the decade, and become more nuanced, he's starting to feel like a normal person.

For 11 years now, Khadr has come to symbolize our emotional intelligence around terrorism.

Though he had early supporters and sympathizers, the general consensus after he was detained for killing an American soldier in 2002 was that imprisoning this child — without trial and 2,500 kilometres from his Ottawa family — was a necessary evil to vaccinate Canada against the disease of radical Islam.

But by the time the Iraq war began exposing its fault lines, and the Western world expressed feeling betrayed by governments, Khadr started becoming a martyr of our hysteria.

Then, in the late 2000s, as the Harper government stonewalled all efforts to bring him back from Guantanamo Bay prison camp, two-thirds of Canadians supported repatriating him.

Khadr eventually pleaded guilty, enrolled in correspondence classes at King's University College (a local Christian institution) and was transferred to an Ontario maximum security prison like any other Canadian convicted of murder. As Khadr's life became more normalized, inasmuch as a 26-year-old inmate's life can be, so has terrorism, even as it persists.

Last April, Liberal Leader Justin Trudeau followed the Boston Bombings by asking Canadians "to look at the root causes." The comment didn't fly uncriticized, but it wasn't wholly objectionable either, though it definitely would have been 10 years ago.

This July, Khadr will have served a third of his term and will be up for parole. If he's denied, his release will inevitably come in 2018 so long as he maintains good behaviour.

Whenever he's released, it's very likely that he'll choose to live in Edmonton, where his longtime lawyer, Dennis Edney, and his personal tutor live, and far from his family whom many blame for radicalizing him.

It will be the ultimate test of our changing values. Are we ready to forgive a convicted terrorist, even if it means living side by side?

MP Goldring not guilty of refusing breathalyzer test

Ring off the hook.

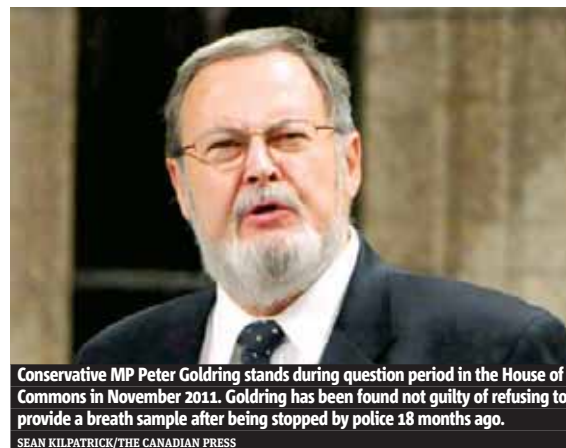

Tory welcomed back to caucus as judge agrees he wasn't 'buying time' to dodge penalty

An Edmonton MP has been found not guilty of failing to provide a breath sample during a police checkstop.

A provincial court judge ruled Peter Goldring wasn't trying to avoid taking a test, but was simply asking questions that any person in his situation would have asked when officers pulled him over.

"The questions that Mr. Goldring was asking do not suggest he was just buying time," Edmonton Judge Larry Anderson said in a written decision Thursday.

Goldring said the trial highlighted problems with random roadside checkstop legislation. Police are obliged to wait 15 minutes before administering the test if the detainee has just had a drink and Goldring said the rights of people who have been detained are unclear during that time.

"Many, many people have indecision, they have difficulties understanding what these mean," he said outside court. "I'm pleased (the judge) has come down in my favour on the judgment."

Goldring, who represents Edmonton East for the Conservatives, has been sitting as an Independent since leaving the government caucus over the charge, but was welcomed back following Thursday's decision.

10th homicide of 2013

16-year-old charged in third downtown murder in a week

Edmonton police have charged a 16-year-old male with murder in connection with the death of an 18-year-old earlier this week.

In a release issued Thursday, police said the 16-year-old has been charged with second degree murder and possession of a weapon in relation to the death of Shane Kyle Bird, who was found wounded in the street on 114 Street north of Jasper Avenue in the early hours of Monday morning.

Bird was transported to hospital, but died upon arrival.

Police said on Tuesday they had a suspect in the case, but declined to provide any details.

Following the announcement of the charges Thursday, police said they are not looking for any additional suspects.

Bird's death was Edmonton's 10th homicide of the year, and one of three confirmed inside of a week in the greater downtown area.

Focus on fire safety. Smokers encouraged to butt out responsibly

In addition to keeping Edmonton clean, the city is hoping responsible disposal of cigarettes will mean fewer fires.

Edmonton fire acting district chief Dwayne Smith said the city has seen 400 fires in May alone and while they can't be 100 per cent sure, he believes cigarettes caused most of them.

"Usually in a field along a roadway, odds are it was started by discarded smoking materials," said Smith.

Smith said the fires are a big drain on resources.

"If we are out fighting a grass fire it takes trucks away from responding to other emergency calls," he said.

Homicide. Cops investigate man found dead in bushes

Blunt-force trauma has been determined as the cause of death of a man found dead in some bushes in southwest Edmonton Wednesday afternoon.

In a release issued Thursday afternoon, police said an autopsy confirmed the man's death as a homicide.

His name will not be released until next of kin have been notified.

Police said the man was last seen in the area he was found dead — 68 Avenue and 170

Street — earlier in the week, on Monday.

They are asking witnesses or anyone with information to call 780-423-4567 or #377 from a mobile phone, or Crime Stoppers at 1-800-222-8477.

This is Edmonton's 12th homicide of the year — and fourth in a week.

Police reiterated Thursday, though, that there is nothing to suggest this homicide is related to any others, and that investigators believe it was not a random act. METRO

Control. City's mosquito program used on 1,400 sq. km area, meaning 80 per cent fewer bugs than outside boundary

HEATHER MCINTYRE

The mosquito situation in Edmonton has gotten better, but only time — and rain — will tell if it will get worse.

Right now is a time to be enjoyed though, said Mike Jenkins, city biological sciences technician, as there are less of the bugs biting.

"There's definitely a lot fewer mosquitoes than there was a week ago," Jenkins said Thursday.

The city has completed one full sweep of its mosquito control program, said James Wilke, director of animal care and pest management, including spraying from helicopters and by ground crews, and is now monitoring various traps, rain levels and standing water in an attempt to see what's to come.

Without knowing how much precipitation will fall though, it's hard to predict.

Impossible actually, according to Jenkins.

Those have mostly died off, but a reprieve could be short-lived — depending on rainfall.

The Aedes vexans, most active at dawn and dusk, are the main component of Edmonton's itch-inciting population — and their time hasn't arrived yet.

"It usually hits around the beginning of July," said Jenkins. "It looks like those ones aren't going to be delayed."

Police ticketing jaywalkers

The number of jaywalking tickets that have been issued along Whyte Avenue between 99 Street and 114 Street since 2006.

If you are crossing Whyte Avenue this summer be sure to do it legally, as police will be out in force looking for jaywalkers.

Edmonton Police has begun stepping up their efforts when it comes to illegal crossings on Whyte Avenue and have promised to hand out even more tickets this summer than ever before.

"We're seeing a lot of people get hurt by simple jaywalking," said EPS Sgt. Maurice Brodeur, who cites safety as the No. 1 reason for this initiative.

The city increased jaywalking fines in 2008 from $40 to $250 in an attempt to dissuade pedestrians from committing the offence, but Brodeur said so far not much has changed. He's hoping with this summer's crackdown pedestrians will finally start to get it.

"We're enforcing this as much as we can. I'm a sergeant, I don't write a lot of tickets, but I will write this ticket every time," he said.

Brodeur said some local businesses have even put up signs saying jaywalkers won't be allowed in their establishments.

"They did this of their own volition because they too have seen this and they know how serious this is."

Two people have died as a result of jaywalking on Whyte Avenue since 2002.

"We're just trying to set the tone for a safe summer," said Brodeur. PATRICK NGUYEN/FOR METRO

75th annual party

Patrollers to be recognized

Safety will be in the spotlight Friday as the Alberta Motor Association will host an appreciation day for over 5,000 Edmonton and area school patrollers.

The AMA, along with the Edmonton Police Service and other safety partners, will hold the 75th anniversary party where top patrollers from Scott Robertson School will receive the Coaching for Success award for outstanding teamwork.

Also attending will be Frank Sheckter, who was one of the city's first patrollers back in 1938. METRO

Police seeking tips. Man missing since April

The Fort Saskatchewan RCMP are hoping the public can help find a man who has been missing since late April.

Justin Cooper, 24, was last seen on April 29, 2013, but was only recently reported missing.

He is described as a Caucasian male and is approximately five-foot eight with a medium build. He has brown hair and blue eyes.

Anyone who has seen Cooper is being asked to call the Fort Saskatchewan RCMP at 780-992-6100, or anonymously with Crime Stoppers at 1-800-422-8477. METRO

Progeny of pacemaker co-creator to carry on the family legacy

She hearts medicine, too. U of A graduate 'very inspired' by grandfather's work

edmonton@metronews.ca

As Natasha Hajduk walked the halls of the University of Alberta as a medical student, she had her grandfather literally looking over her.

Her grandfather John Carter Callaghan co-created the pacemaker, and a bust memorializing him and remembering his accomplishments sits in the Mazankowski Heart Institute.

"He has (left) some pretty big shoes to fill. I think that's a good goal to always be aspiring to," Hajduk said about how inspired she was by her

Leaving a legacy

- A pacemaker is an intravenous device that restores the rhythm of a slow or uneven heart-beat, helping millions of people all over the world lead normal lives.
- Callaghan was made an Officer of the Order of Canada in 1985, and was inducted into the Alberta Order of Excellence in 1986.

grandfather's work.

Callaghan was also the first surgeon in Canada to perform a successful open-heart surgery. He retired from the University of Alberta in the mid 1980s and now, in the medical school's 100th year, his granddaughter will graduate as a doctor.

Hajduk said she didn't know the extent of her grandfather's groundbreaking work until the sixth grade, when she did a presentation about the first pacemaker.

"That's when I learned about all the things he had done; I was very inspired," she said.

Hajduk's pride for her grandfather continued through to medical school, where cardiac surgeons that knew him would regale her with stories about Callaghan.

"My experience with him was always as a grandfather. They had the experience of how he was as a doctor and it was cool to hear about that side of him," she said.

Hajduk plans to move to Calgary after graduation to begin her residency in family medicine, with the end goal of having her own family clinic.

K-Days will feature beer, ball, ribs and racing

Northlands brought a taste of K-Days to the legislature grounds on Thursday, and Edmontonians enjoyed eating ribs and playing volleyball.

This year's re-branded festival will feature southern cooking and hospitality at Rib Fest, which will feature four world-class ribbers serving up meaty dishes, organizers announced Thursday.

As well, K-Days organizers said a beach volleyball court, complete with real sand, will be at the July event.

Chris Roberts, with Northlands Park, told those gathered at Thursday's media announcement that the horseracing track will again be a part of K-Days.

Miss World pageant covers up

Indonesia. Pageant contestants will have to opt for more conservative sarongs instead of bikinis

Miss World has axed the famed bikinis from this year's pageant in Indonesia, replacing the skimpy swim-suits with conservative beach sarongs amid mounting protests from hard-line Muslim groups, organizers said Thursday.

All of the more than 130 contestants will be required to wear Bali's traditional long sarongs instead of the sexy bikinis that are historically part of the competition, said Adjie S. Soeratmadjje of the RCTI, the official broadcaster and local organizer.

Parts of the pageant will take place on the resort island of Bali and the final round will be held Sept. 28 near the capital, Jakarta. Indonesia is the world's most populous Muslim country.

"There will be no bikini in this year's Miss World pageant to respect our traditional customs and values," Soeratmadjje said, adding that the London-based Miss World Organization is on board with the decision.

"This is a sensitive issue in Indonesia. We have discussed it since last year and they have agreed," he said.

The chairwoman of the Miss World Organization, Julia Morley, confirmed that none of the 137 contestants would wear a bikini.

"Indonesia is designing for us a very beautiful one-piece beachwear, and I'm very happy with them," she told The Associated Press by phone from London, adding that the pageant will include a special beachwear fashion show.

"I don't think Indonesia is the only country that has that culture," Morley said. "But we like to work in the manner respectful to every country, and I cannot see why when you go to somebody's country you should not behave respectfully."

The pageant began in the 1950s, and the first winner was crowned in a two-piece bathing suit.

Soeratmadjje said the sarong would be made creatively and designed specifically for the event. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Health minister tables bill to tighten rules on injection sites

The federal government has introduced tough new rules for supervised drug-injection sites, in a move some see as an effort to deter such facilities.

The government says it's a response to a Supreme Court of Canada ruling that ordered the Conservatives to keep a Vancouver clinic open against their will.

But NDP health critic Libby Davies said the government is effectively blocking any chance of setting up a new clinic.

The new legislation would require advocates of new clinics to meet two dozen specific criteria before they can apply to open a new clinic. Among other things, they would have to canvass community opinion and gain the support of provincial and municipal authorities.

The health minister would then make the final decision.

As Health Minister Leona Aglukkaq tabled her bill on Thursday, she made it clear which way she will lean.

"Our government believes that a site involving the use of illicit substances should be strictly controlled to protect everyone in the community," she told reporters.

"Accordingly, we believe that the application process needs to be changed to create formal opportunities for local voices to be heard and their views considered before an exemption would be considered." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Pope weighs in on food waste

Study. UN food agency research finds that one-third of food produced in the world is lost or wasted

KIERON MONKS

Metro World News

Pope Francis added his voice to the growing campaign against food waste on World Environment Day, attacking a "culture of waste" that is "stealing from the table of those who are poor and hungry".

Awareness around the campaign has grown rapidly, with the European Parliament recently adopting a resolution to halve food waste in member states by 2025. There have already been successes, such as household waste in the U.K. dropping 8 per cent over two years.

Activists welcomed the Pope's remarks.

"It is important, and what

he said was right," said Tristram Stuart, founder of activist group Feeding the 5000, part of the EU FUSIONS initiative (Food Use of Social Innovation by Optimising Waste Prevention Strategies). "Wasting imported food means the locals in food-insecure areas cannot buy it, so it is taken off their table."

But the focus should be more on the suppliers, Stuart claimed. "Retailers shouldn't deflect attention to the consumer, most food waste is in the supply chain. But consumers have the responsibility to ensure the businesses we buy from every day are held to account."

One strategy is to audit the supply and release comprehensive figures on waste, with several European parliaments considering such a proposal. Stuart is optimistic that agreements can be reached.

"Compared to other campaigns like climate change, food waste is something that strikes people as instinctively wrong, from a taxi driver in Delhi to a CEO in New York, and there are relatively simple solutions."

International supermarkets have been slow to commit to waste cutting proposals, but Charlie Clutterbuck of the U.K. Food Ethics Council recommends people can influence them by buying closer to home.

"Localism is a solution," he told Metro. "If there is a network to link local initiatives it will stop food prices rising, make us less dependent and change the supply model."

Ruling puts young girl on adult waiting list

Holding her breath.
10-year-old girl still waiting for a lung from a pediatric donor

The national organ transplant network has complied with a judge's unusual order and placed a dying 10-year-old girl on the adult waiting list for a donated lung.

The Organ Procurement and Transplantation Network added her to the list Wednesday night after U.S. District Judge Michael Baylson's ruling, U.S. Health and Human Services Secretary Kathleen Sebelius said Thursday.

The girl, Sarah Murnaghan, also remains on the priority list for a lung from a pediatric donor, Sebelius said.

Her family, through a spokeswoman, said her condition had worsened Thursday.

Sarah's parents had challenged existing transplant policy that made children under 12 wait for pediatric lungs to become available, or be offered lungs donated by adults after adolescents and adults on the waiting list had been considered.

Bill could make assisted suicide legal in Quebec

Quebec's government is days from addressing a bill that would make it the first province to legalize doctor-assisted suicide for the terminally ill.

The idea that the most gravely ill have a right to end their lives has drawn support

A spokesperson for Social Services Minister Véronique Hivon said legislation would be introduced before lawmakers' break next week.

No beef with beef. E. coli outbreak hasn't shaken consumer confidence

Canadian cattle producers say an E. coli outbreak that made 18 people sick and led to an extensive beef recall last fall hasn't managed to shake consumer confidence in beef.

Canada Beef Inc. — the industry's marketing arm — said Canadians' total beef consumption last year was up 2.2 per cent from 2011.

Chairman Chuck MacLean said the industry supports the findings of an independent review that blamed lax attitudes by federal inspectors and staff at the XL Foods plant in Brooks, Alta., for the tainted meat.

Canada Beef said it also supports Ottawa's plan to tighten the rules for meat plants and add more inspections.

"I like the 30 recommendations and I think a lot of them are already being enacted," MacLean said Thursday from his cattle feedlot business in Bow Island in southeastern Alberta.

"Going forward you learn from whatever missteps that we have had in the industry. Hopefully we will fix that and do a better job."

MacLean said consumers can help reduce the risk of contracting E. coli by properly handling and cooking beef.

The industry is also lobbied by Health Canada for permission to use irradiation on beef products to kill E. coli.

MacLean said the food-safety system can't be made perfect, but proper safeguards can help catch and detect glitches before they have a chance to become a serious problem.

"We are putting safeguards in place so that hopefully if somebody is just having a bad day, that it doesn't get past them," MacLean said.

Activist killed during fight with skinheads

France. Four suspects with alleged ties to extreme-right movements arrested

A group of skinheads beat a French far-left activist to death in the heart of Paris' shopping district, officials said Thursday, in an attack that raised fears of increased far-right violence.

Political tensions are high in France after months of protests against legalizing gay marriage that sometimes ended with troublemakers from the extreme right clashing with police.

Interior Minister Manuel Valls said a fight broke out Wednesday evening between two groups of young people in a pedestrian street just steps away from the famous Printemps department store. The activist, Clement Meric, was initially hospitalized in grave

Canadian seeks record for wine label collection

Guinness attempt.

Toronto man has more than 160,000 labels — although he didn't drink all that vino

It would take more than four consecutive days to view every item in what just might be the world's largest wine-label collection.

Toronto resident and former sommelier Alain Laliberte owns about 160,000 wine labels, carefully stored in 123 shoeboxes. He has contacted Guinness World Records because he is confident he has enough to break the current high of 16,349 labels.

Of course, he hasn't managed to taste the contents of all 160,000 bottles. But with an average of 5,000 wines sampled per year, he's not that far off.

Laliberte's hobby led last weekend to him becoming the jury president at a wine-labels championship, organized as part of the International Wine Championship in Quebec City. Jurors selected an Ontario ice wine, Coldhearted Riesling 2007, as the winner among the 81 competitors from different countries.

Some wine producers put considerable artistic effort into designing labels and the championship aimed to recognize them. France's Baron Philippe de Rothschild was a pioneer in the area. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Strawberry fields under the weather

At least 40 per cent of Nova Scotia's strawberry industry, a sector worth about $18 million annually, has been damaged by an insect-borne virus, provincial Agriculture Minister John MacDonell said Thursday. The virus is carried by aphids and has been detected in the Debert area, near Truro, as well as the Annapolis Valley. But MacDonell said he wasn't worried about the possibility of the virus spreading much further because of the relatively short distances aphids travel. The affected plants aren't harmful to eat but they are often stunted and can't be sold, and berries may disappear from the plants. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS FILE

Confectionary cartel? Charges laid in chocolate price-fixing case

The accused in a chocolate price-fixing case could face a bitter fate if convicted — millions of dollars in fines for the companies and potential jail time for the individuals.

Also charged are former Nestle Canada president Robert Leonidas; Sandra Martinez, former president of confectionery for Nestle Canada; and David Glenn

Midnight munchies. McDonald's offers breakfast for night owls

McDonald's is taking a small step toward offering breakfast items outside of its usual breakfast hours — at least if you're a night owl.

Starting this month, the fast-food chain says participating 24-hour restaurants in select U.S. locations will offer an After Midnight menu that includes its Egg McMuffin, Big Mac and Chicken McNuggets.

Customers will be able to create Midnight Value Meals, with either fries or hash browns as their side items, McDonald's says.

A mockup of the menu provided by the company showed an Egg McMuffin paired with French fries, next to the heading, "Dinner or Breakfast? Yes."

The rollout of the menu, which is available from midnight to 4 a.m., builds on a Breakfast After Midnight menu the company has been testing.

McDonald's CEO Don Thompson had said in a CNBC interview earlier this year that the company was open to expanding its breakfast hours. Fans of McDonald's breakfast have long wanted the chain to make its Egg McMuffins and biscuits available later in the day. THE CANADIAN PRESS

FEMALE VIAGRA HARD TO SWALLOW

1 Sexy specs. Google Glass users were briefly treated to some mobile porn before the Internet giant's moral police yanked it out from under them. The perfectly respectable app, entitled T*ts and Glass, allowed users to share unfiltered content, and they stopped it. Kudos to Google for taking a stand and saying, "Hey, you can watch porn on your desktops, laptops and smartphones all you want, just not while you're crossing the street, dammit!"

2 Calling occupants. NASA Prof. Joel Levine is looking for $650 million to finance an aerial regional-scale environmental survey. Basically, a robotic, rocket-powered airplane to fly around Mars searching for trace gases that prove there is life on the planet. We have no information on how much the Martians spent probing Earth for humans with trace gases.

3 Badass Biebs. Justin Bieber is smoking weed, getting inked, hanging with gangsta rappers, and wearing white undershirts with gold chains. He's taken to fast cars and has even added a lazy little ghetto-strut to his walk. I am just waiting for his first teardrop tattoo so I can actually start listening to his music.

4 Subcellular. A recent study revealed that even though Google's Android phones captured a majority of the U.S. smartphone market share, the average iPhone user spends more than 50 per cent more time actually using their device than Android users. The reason? Porn.

5 Forever young. Researchers in Australia performed a study of sun damage among 900 people. Some applied sunscreen on a daily basis, while others used it only when they felt exposed. After four years, those using sunscreen religiously had 24 per cent less skin aging than the others. They were also extremely pale, completely broke, and more prone to having objects slip from their greasy hands.

6 For the ladies. A Dutch company called Emotional Brain is performing clinical trials of a new drug, Lybrido. The female Viagra is said to treat hypoactive sexual desire disorder. HSDD is a lack of sexual desire affecting many women. If the research proves successful, scientists will immediately begin work on another pill that will make women care enough to take the first one.

7 Double dribble. Former NBA all-stars Jason Kidd and Grant Hill were drafted one after the other in 1994, shared Rookie of the Year honours in 1995, and at 40, were among the five oldest players in the league this year. This week, two days after Grant Hill retired, Jason Kidd announced he would do the same. Sources close to Hill say he is looking for a new home as far away from Kidd as possible.

8 This week. In 1969, Keith Richards and partner Anita Pallenberg were in a car accident near their home in Sussex. While the car was written off and Pallenberg suffered a broken collarbone, Richards escaped serious injury, proving once again that Keith cannot be killed.

9 Also this week. In 1997, Oasis guitarist Noel Gallagher played a five-song set at the Tibet Freedom Concert. He then walked off stage, got drunk and punched out a fan. I'm kidding. That was not the night he punched out a fan.

@Astroboi8: If people use sick days as extra vacation days. Then those who are moral are penalized.

@FrenchmanCanada: Getting better, isn't that the point?

@jarmak77: It's best not to use a sick day since most places I worked discipline you for using them.

Synopsis

This new buddy comedy pairs Owen Wilson and Vince Vaughn for the first time since 2005's Wedding Crashers. They are Nick and Billy, two wild and crazy guys whose sales jobs are made obsolete in the technological age. Unable to get a foothold in the new media field they crash Google's Mountain View, Calif. headquarters and become "noogles" in hopes of landing gigs as interns, despite having no experience with computers. "We're looking at some sort of mental Hunger Games against a bunch of genius kids for just a handful of jobs," says Nick.

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

The Internship.

Owen Wilson and Vince Vaughn fail to rekindle that Wedding Crashers magic in this poor man's version of Revenge of the Nerds

Richard: Mark, this is the funniest infomercial I've ever seen. As a comedy movie it doesn't rate that high, but as an advertisement for Google it's a knee slapper. I've seen product placement in movies before, but this is something else. By the time Rose Byrne's character says, "I believe what we do here makes people's lives better," I was ready to worship at the Church of the Sacred Search Engine. We also learn that Google is ranked as the best place to work in America. That's all great, but I was hoping for more laughs with my infomercial. What did you think?

Mark: Ugh! The shameless corporate tie-in made me want to take a shower. And it opens up the door for less savoury companies to do the same thing: can Monsanto: The Movie be far behind? It's too bad, because the leads are great, and it's a great premise — but I didn't laugh once. It could have been a version of Animal House set at a business behemoth, but comes off as a bad Revenge of the Nerds. The idea would make a great reality series, but the movie flops and feels engineered from the first frame onwards.

RC: I'm not so sure I thought the leads were great. There are some laughs in The Internship. Unfortunately, very few of them are generated by Vaughn and Wilson. The chemistry that made Wedding Crashers such a big hit eight years ago is still in place, but the material isn't. They still banter a blue streak but it feels tired and old, like many of the jokes. The two luddites at a tech mecca should have been workable, but it often feels like laughing at grandpa because he can't figure out how to work the remote.

MB: I meant the leads are great, but not in this movie! Everything seems laboured, underscored, and over directed. These two guys may preach the value of eccentricity in the workplace, but the script defies their goal at every turn. It's a very conventional movie that's even a little smarmy at times. The old Vince Vaughn would have made fun of the sentimentality that crowds any good moments out of the picture. And Wilson's role is just too vaporous to register.

RC: Perhaps next time the screenwriters can Google some better jokes.

MB: I say Yahoo! to that.

Owen Wilson and Vince Vaughn star in The Internship. HANDOUT

Drama

The Lesser Blessed

Director. Anita Doron

Stars. Joel Evans, Benjamin Bratt, Kiowa Gordon

.....

In Anita Doron's The Lesser Blessed, the life of a First Nations teenager living in the Northwest Territories is drastically changed when he's befriended by the new boy at school. Larry Sole (Joel Evans) stops being an outsider the day Johnny Beck (Kiowa Gordon) takes him under his wing, but even he can't seem to protect Larry from his past. Though it serves a heavy dose of adolescent drama, Doron's feature lends a voice to First Nations characters we don't normally see on screen. MANORI RAVINDRAN

Thriller

The Purge

Director. James DeMonaco

Stars. Ethan Hawke, Lena Headey

.....

To call The Purge cooked-up is an injustice to baked goods. A dystopian futuristic thriller about a family enduring an annual 12-hour government-backed event whereby crimes of any sort are legal (somehow this curbs violence the other 364 days of the calendar?) is as contrived and callous as cinema gets. If the filmmaker's aim was to create a moral allegory akin to A Clockwork Orange, he didn't even come within an eyelash.

There's not much 'Buzz' in space: Aldrin

While astronaut Buzz Aldrin enjoys movies about space, he doesn't always think they get it right. His main point of contention after seeing After Earth: "There was a lot of noise. In space, you don't get that much noise." Aldrin, who followed Neil Armstrong onto the surface of the moon during the historic Apollo 11 landing in 1969, says that "noise doesn't propagate in a vacuum. We talked over headsets." Aldrin enjoyed the father-son dynamic between Will Smith and son Jaden, but thought there was a little too much "shoot'em-up" for his taste. "I hope the aliens are more peaceful than they are in this film, wherever they are," Aldrin joked.

It's the end of the world as (Seth and Evan) know it ...

This is the End. Superbad writers talk the apocalypse, comedy and condoms

liz.brown@metronews.ca

The kings of the buddy comedy are back with a film of apocalyptic proportions. Seth Rogen and Evan Goldberg have been friends since childhood and writing partners since high school, where they first penned Superbad.

Their new collaboration, This is the End, features an ensemble cast of some of their favourite past co-conspirators. Rogen, Jay Baruchel, James Franco, Jonah Hill, Danny McBride and Craig Robinson (all playing themselves) hunker down in Franco's house during the end of the world. A veritable list of Hollywood's who's who round out the cast with bit parts: Michael Cera, Rihanna, Channing Tatum, Paul Rudd, Jason Segel and more have a role to play in the rapture.

Recently Metro caught up with the Vancouver-bred pals in Toronto over (fittingly) a bottle of Molson Canadian.

This idea was spawned from a short you wrote in 2007 called Jay & Seth vs. The Apocalypse. How did it turn into a full-length movie?

Seth: It took us a really long time to think of a way to expand it, honestly. We just couldn't think of where it would go, so it really took us four years of just kicking around the idea to really even get what type of full length movie it could be.

Evan: And then we had the people-play-themselves idea separate, and until we combined them, it didn't seem like the apocalypse thing was a full idea to us.

Seth: And then around three and a half years ago, we realized we could combine them.

There's a lot of self-deprecation in the movie. Was it hard to get the actors to poke fun at themselves?

Evan: The studios were kind of frightened by the concept of actors playing themselves.

Seth: The actors were really into it. I don't think anyone said no based on content. We were going out to these actors to see if they would play themselves so they were overwhelmingly psyched about it, so it was nice to see that some people thought it was a good idea.

Michael Cera was wild, with the cocaine and sex...

Seth: He was so crazy, it kind of raised the bar for everyone.

There was a lot of peer pressure involved in making this movie. It was like well Michael did THAT so you don't want to be the guy who says no to doing something.

Evan: It wasn't like when an actor finished their bit they went back to their trailer. They stayed with all the other actors because everyone was excited.

It's the end of the world, you can only have three survival items. What are they?

Evan: Three of these four: water, food, guns, condoms.

Seth: The thing about guns is they can help you acquire any other items you may need...

Evan: But you don't want venereal disease.

Seth: With a gun, you can get condoms.

Evan: True.

Seth Rogen talks about the end of the world in Toronto last month. LIZ BEDDALL/METRO

Wouldn't condoms depend on who you were with?

Evan: Condoms are just always a good idea.

Seth: You can fill them with water and play with them.

Final question. What would be the last thing you guys would say to each other?

Seth: You are nothing without me.

Evan: Hahaha

Seth: The laugh is probably what would actually happen.

Evan: I hope my last moment is just hahaha.

Evan Goldberg hopes his last words on earth are hahaha. LIZ BEDDALL/METRO

The Daily Show with John Oliver? It beats being a drug mule

The other John. Comedian didn't hesitate at the chance to fill in at the anchor desk

Since 2006, John Oliver has proved his mettle as a phoney journalist on The Daily Show.

Serving in numerous "reporting" roles on the spoof newscast, but chiefly as senior British correspondent, the Birmingham, England-born Oliver is school-boyish, poker-faced and emphatic in explaining America to itself — whether the topic is Occupy Wall Street, gun control or the N-word. And he's satisfied that his accent from across the pond makes anything he says, however off-kilter, sound authoritative here in the New World.

Recently Oliver said a simple "yes" to his boss, Jon Stewart, who means to take the summer off to make a feature film and asked Oliver to fill in for him at the Daily Show anchor desk.

"I'll say yes to anything he wants me to do," Oliver explains at the Daily Show offices in midtown Manhattan. "I owe him so much — he brought me over here (to the U.S.) seven years ago — so I'll do anything he wants, whether it's hosting his show or operating as a drug mule between here and Bogota. As it happens," adds Oliver, looking relieved, "what he wanted was just hosting this show." In the coming months, Stewart will be directing and producing Rosewater from his own script based on a book by Iranian journalist Maziar Bahari, who was falsely accused of being a spy and imprisoned by the Iranian government in 2009 while covering Iran's presidential election.

And starting Monday, Oliver will preside on The Daily Show (which airs at 11 p.m. EDT Mondays through Thursdays on Comedy Central). He will substitute-anchor for eight weeks of new shows before Stewart's return on Sept. 3.

"He's got all the talents and he's gonna be great," declared Stewart in a separate interview. "And he can handle the speed of it. You want somebody in that position for everybody else on the staff, so they don't feel they have to slow down."

CTV adds Marvel's Agents of S.H.I.E.L.D. to fall lineup

Television. The Joss Whedon-created series will anchor a new Tuesday lineup

Buzzy shows starring Toni Collette, Josh Holloway, Malin Akerman and Bethenny Frankel are joining a revamped CTV lineup, but the network is touting a relative scarcity of new series as testament to a consistent, stable schedule.

The market leader notes it's picked up only four new dramas, two new comedies and one new unscripted series for prime time this fall.

They include the Collette thriller Hostages, also featuring Dylan McDermott and Tate Donovan; Marvel's Agents of S.H.I.E.L.D., created by Joss Whedon; the paranormal drama The Tomorrow People and the police drama Played.

The Whedon show will anchor a whole new lineup Tuesday, to be followed by the '80s-set family comedy The Goldbergs and the new sitcom Trophy Wife, starring Bradley Whitford and Akerman. The night is capped by Person of Interest, which jumps to CTV after previously airing on City.

Meanwhile, budding chefs are the stars of Junior Masterchef, a spin-off of the culinary competition series that will showcase talented kids between the ages of eight and

13 in food challenges and cook-offs.

More is on the way for mid-season, with additions including Holloway's high-tech spy show Intelligence, the mystical drama Believe from Lost creator J.J. Abrams and Masterchef Canada, a Canadian version of the Gordon Ramsay hit.

Mid-season comedies include Kirstie Alley in her self-titled comedy, Kirstie, the serialized sitcom Mixology, Dave Foley's new multi-cam comedy Spun Out, and the '90s-set family comedy Surviving Jack, with former Law & Order: Special Victims Unit star Christopher Meloni.

"Year-after-year, CTV offers programming consistency and durability not found anywhere else," Phil King, president of CTV programming and sports, said Thursday in a statement.

Executives were to introduce the new lineup with all-day promotional events Thursday featuring Frankel, Donovan and Delroy Lindo from Believe.

Daytime this fall will see the addition of the homegrown talk show The Social and the official arrival of Frankel's talk show Bethenny, which previewed with a short run last year.

And Late Night with Jimmy Fallon joins CTV in the fall, with Seth Meyers in the chair this winter after Fallon leaves to take over The Tonight Show from Jay Leno. It will follow The Daily Show and lead into Conan.

Meanwhile, CTV is moving Dancing With The Stars, Tuesday's edition of The Voice, The X Factor, American Idol and Undercover Boss over to CTV Two this fall.

CTV also announced that its entire new lineup will be available on CTV GO, an on-demand platform allowing viewers to access a live stream of the channel as well as premium on-demand programming. It debuts this fall.

Green explores Alexis breakup on new album

Interview. Former Alexisonfire frontman Dallas Green talks about his depression after leaving band he helped form Dallas Green.

CHRIS YOUNG/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two years ago, Little Hell granted City and Colour's Dallas Green his greatest success yet — platinum sales, his first chart-topping album and eventually, a Juno Award for songwriter of the year. So naturally, as he toured his most popular record yet, he was miserable.

That Green was blue had nothing to do with Little Hell, which he liked, but instead a heavy secret he'd been toting: the 32-year-old had already decided to depart the beloved post-hardcore band he'd helped to found more than a decade earlier, Alexisonfire, but news wouldn't reach the public until months later.

"Making Little Hell, I knew I had left the band," he recalled during a recent interview at an east Toronto bar. "I was lying to all the public, right? ... And that really (messed) me up."

It took making The Hurry and the Harm — out Tuesday — to help heal Green. As he was wrapping up the Little Hell tour, he "rekindled his relationship" with the rest of Alexisonfire and they announced plans for a farewell jaunt.

He decided to work quickly, wanting to figure out new songs before re-immersing himself in the Alexis headspace before their bittersweet victory lap. In Nashville and Toronto, he put together The Hurry and the Harm and had a "wonderful experience." After completing the Alexis tour, he was suddenly in a far more positive place than he had been in a long time.

"For the first time in eight or nine years, I didn't have anything to do," he said. "I had the record done ... and I finished and closed the book on the Alexis chapter. The first couple weeks of January are the first two weeks I've ever relaxed, like literally relaxed, in eight or nine years. And it was a really big moment. It was like a proverbial weight off my shoulders."

Cruising with a crossover hit

New music. Florida Georgia Line living the high life as they find themselves topping Nashville charts with a summer crossover hit

The guys in Florida Georgia Line thought they were riding a whirlwind when their first single improbably made it to the top of the country charts late last year.

Now that Nelly has entered the picture and Cruise is rocketing up the pop charts, Tyler Hubbard and Brian Kelley have discovered — like Taylor Swift, Lady Antebellum and a few other country acts over the years — that there's nothing like the ride of a crossover hit.

"I think it's kind of like pouring gas on a fire," Hubbard said.

"It's been wild."

They hold a coveted headliner's spot during the Country Music Association Festival's nightly concerts this weekend, a sure sign you've made it in the world of rhinestone twang.

A year ago they played a small stage outside LP Field promoting promising acts as fans streamed in to watch the top stars later that night at the four-day festival.

Since then, Cruise went No. 1 on the country charts, they won the Academy of Country Music's best new artist award, scored coveted opening slots on tour with country's hottest acts Swift and Luke Bryan, and met Nelly. Their remix is currently No. 5 on Billboard's Hot 100 songs chart. Because of it, they had a starring role at the CMT Music Awards, where they won a leading two trophies Wednesday night. They're one of the most visible acts in Nashville in a week when every star is in town.

"I don't think it gets any better," Kelley said while standing in an arena hallway after CMT Music Awards rehearsals Monday night. "It's been crazy to see this ride take off."

Few artists have risen so quickly in the fairly stagnant world of country music. Fans are loyal, but they aren't always quick to adapt. Top stars like Jason Aldean and Eric Church, for instance, were at it for a decade before hitting the top reaches of country music.

Hubbard and Kelley started playing the game in earnest in 2009 after meeting at Belmont University, the private school near Music Row that's been the starting point for many musicians and music business employees in town. Unlike that legion of aspiring artists, managers and publicists, neither Hubbard nor Kelley came to town with designs on the spotlight.

Thom Yorke finds fresh outlook in L.A.

Atoms For Peace.

Radiohead frontman says that West Coast living is helping to feed back into the brooding Brit band he's famous for Southern California has been good for Thom Yorke.

It's the home base for his four-year-old band Atoms For Peace, meaning he's making occasional tough cross-continent commuter flights from the United Kingdom but also hiking up to Griffith Observatory and surfing with Atoms bassist Flea of the Red Hot Chili Peppers. The very English Radiohead frontman said Los Angeles is steadily working its magic on him.

"I find it hard to work in Britain all the time," Yorke said. "Because I've grown up with it and it's what I know. And I've also grown up with the cynicism that's in the genes. Sometimes it's good to try and wash that out. Generally in my work, it's really helped me a lot. And it's fed back into the Radiohead thing too. Maybe it's just getting old, but I'm loosening up with all my ... stupid rules about what works, what doesn't work."

percussionist Mauro Refosco and drummer Joey Waronker to perform songs from his 2006 solo album The Eraser. A series of loose recorded L.A. jam sessions followed, which Yorke and Godrich rearranged and remixed for nearly two years.

The resulting album, Amok, was released in February and blends Yorke's distinctive tenor vocals with complex layers of rhythm. A week after getting back together to rehearse for an upcoming tour, Yorke and Flea sat together at a picnic table last week outside their rehearsal space.

expect, finishing each other's thoughts and reminiscing about their first meeting at a festival some 15 years ago.

"You gave me a lift to the stage, that's right," Yorke told his bandmate, laughing.

For everyone involved, who made their names performing with other groups, Atoms For Peace "feels like a musical vacation, like going on a field trip," Flea said, smiling between sips of tea.

The band's 27-date tour begins in July in Europe and will reach the U.S. in September before ending in Japan. It follows a more limited 2010 tour, all much more than was originally planned for the group.

"It was quite fun anyway because it was no biggie," he said. "We had one gig planned at the end of it. If it wasn't going to work out, then fine. But I was just amazed at how sort of slinky the grooves got." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Queens of the Stone Age. Josh's Homme is where his heart is on their new album

When Josh Homme sat down to write the music that would become Queens of the Stone Age's long-awaited new album, he found he had nothing to say. Worse, he was vaguely embarrassed by everything he'd done before.

The mind has its dark places and Homme found himself stuck in some of its blacker recesses after dying briefly on the operating table during leg surgery in 2010.

"One of the things it did for me was it made music seem almost stupid to me, silly," Homme said. "For a guy who's always worshipped music — that's been my religion — to all of a sudden feel foolish about playing music and to feel it was overblown, dramatic, self-absorbed — that (it) meant nothing all of a sudden — was strange."

It began with Homme sitting in a room trying to love music again.

His wife finally got him rolling, convincing him to hit record and make the demos that would eventually become Like Clockwork, the first new album for the Grammy-winning Los Angeles-based band since 2007.

It's not really like any Queens of the Stone Age album you've heard before.

It's dark — OK, darker — and brooding. There are slow, contemplative songs and the mood is far more vulnerable than on any of the band's previous five albums.

"And I hated it because I thought, 'Who's going to want to listen to this?'" Homme said.

"And my wife Brody says, 'Who cares?' And I stopped and went, 'Oh, that's right. Who cares?'"

Tatum worries about Bieber's development

Despite having a newborn daughter at home to concern himself with, Channing Tatum admits he's more worried about another young person: Justin Bieber. "I do believe that whatever age you become famous, you end up staying that age," Tatum tells Vanity Fair. "I worry about Bieber, man. That kid's wildly talented. I hope he doesn't fall down into the usual ways of young kids because it's so hard for someone to be responsible when they're not asked to be."

Pop stars in space

This may or may not give Channing Tatum more reason to be concerned: Justin Bieber has booked a spot on a Virgin Galactic suborbital space flight, according to Virgin founder Richard Branson. "Great to hear Justin Bieber and (his manager) Scooter Braun are latest Virgin Galactic future astronauts. Congrats, see you up there," Branson posted to Twitter this week. Bieber seemed to confirm the news by re-tweeting the mogul's sentiments. Back in February, Bieber tweeted that he wants to "do a concert in space," so perhaps this is more of a scouting trip than a vacation.

Ethan Hawke gushes over Cage's acting abilities

Ethan Hawke admits he's more than a little "obsessed" with fellow actor Nicolas Cage.

"He's the only actor since Marlon Brando that's actually done anything new with the art of acting," he said during a Q&A session on Reddit. "He's successfully taken us away from an obsession with

If I could erase his bottom half bad movies and only keep his top half movies, he would blow everyone out of the water." No word, though, on whether Hawke is going to let Cage influence his own acting style.

Planning a wedding is no piece of cake, although you do get one in the end. But the road to the big day can be bumpy, especially when it comes to choosing wine to be served for that all-important toast to the bride.

It's essential to is to worry less about what you prefer and more about what the majority of your guests will enjoy.

Then there's the cost. Here is where size matters. There's a savings component when you trade up, so bigger is always better.

The selection of 1.5 litre bottles varies wildly across the country. So does their flavour profiles, with many "Canadian" versions made from a blend of imported and domestic juice.

Chile offers some of the best value when it comes to larger bottles, with Concha y Toro's 2011 Frontera Cabernet Sauvignon Merlot (1,500 ml, $13.95 to $19.99) offering bright, red berry fruit and Frontera Sauvignon Blanc (1,500 ml, $13.95 to $19.99) showing off gooseberry and citrus expression.

Truth be told, they're what I served at my nuptials. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

A great way to make your own healthier pizzas is to use thin flour tortillas or pita bread rather than the thick pizza dough that has more calories than nutrients!

Use whatever vegetables and cheese you like.

1. Preheat the oven to 400 F.

Ingredients

- 4 flour small tortillas or pita breads (preferably whole wheat)
- 3/4 cup tomato pasta sauce
- 8 small mushrooms, thinly sliced
- 1/4 cup diced sweet red or green pepper
- 1 tbsp chopped fresh basil
- 1/2 tsp dried oregano
- 1 cup shredded mozzarella cheese
- 1/4 cup chopped feta cheese (optional)

This recipe serves eight or makes 16 hors d'oeuvres. MARK SHAPIRO, FROM ROSE REISMAN BRINGS HOME LIGHT COOKING (ROBERT ROSE)

Place pita bread or tortillas on pizza metal or ceramic dish.

2. Divide the tomato sauce among the breads, ensuring to spread evenly.

3. Top with mushrooms, red pepper, basil and oregano. Sprinkle with cheeses.

4. Bake the pizza for 12 minutes or until it is crisp and the cheese is melted. ROSE REISMAN BRINGS HOME LIGHT COOKING (ROBERT ROSE) BY ROSE REISMAN

You mozza try this grilled dish. It's grape!

1. On a lightly floured surface, roll out the pizza dough and top with a drizzle of olive oil.

2. In a bowl, combine grapes, rosemary leaves, pine nuts and a drizzle of olive oil. Set aside.

3. Slide the pizza dough on the barbecue and cook on medium heat for 2 to 3 minutes on each side until slightly golden brown.

4. Remove dough from barbecue and top with half of the Mozzarellissima, then all of the goat cheese and the grape mixture. Cover with the remaining Mozzarellissima.

5. Place back on barbecue, close cover and cook on medium heat 7 minutes, or until cheese is fully melted. Remove from barbecue, season with fleur de sel.

Tasty wrappers: Can we eat our way to a cleaner future?

Edible packaging.

Across the world various forms of this concept are available and the outcome, one feels, can only be good

Who can forget the racket that a noisy biodegradable Sunchip bag made? Kudos to any manufacturer who cares enough to take an ecological step in the right direction.

Reducing waste and recycling is on the radar of every responsible eater and food manufacturer, no doubt, but the system just isn't perfect yet. What would be ideal is a zero waste, edible package. But will that ever be a reality?

Packaging expert Loong-Tak

Lim, an associate professor at the department of food science at the University of Guelph, says that we already have edible packaging, we just don't know it. Sausage casing, for instance, used to be made from the intestine of animals but now it is man made. His group has the "objective to utilize soy protein and waste from soy plants to produce edible films and coatings. We extracted cellulose microfibrils from the cellulosic waste from soy and use them as a filler to strengthen soy protein and alginate films. The idea is to use them as an edible packaging, for example as a primary packaging in sausage."

Seaweed itself, in the form of Nori, is also an edible wrapper of sorts. The original, most likely, The sugar coating and carnuba wax on M and M's are intended to have the same properties of containing a volatile substance with a stronger one. But that's kinda cheating, right? They aren't edible packaging in the sense that we think of — a vessel that carries food from serving to ingestion.

Eat EVERYTHING on your plate

Look to Taiwan for the most hopeful and inspiring idea.

Chen Liang-erh, an amateur inventor, created edible bowls from oats. They aren't meant to hold much for long, but work well for a street food meal.

It's coming, Lim says. The hurdle is that edible products won't have the robust barrier properties needed to be shelf stable for long periods or throughout travel. They will necessarily have to be quickly used and consumed. They won't be able to hold the marketing and printing dyes like current packages can. Further, the manufacturer needs to meet strict applications of food grade materials and storage to prevent mold and bacteria.

Look to Taiwan for the most hopeful and inspiring idea. Chen Liang-erh, an amateur inventor, created edible bowls from oats. They aren't meant to hold much for long but work well for a street food meal of noodles and then a little crispy cracker after-snack instead of trash. In Japan Nobuhiko Arikawa of Rice-Design has created beautiful restaurant quality edible tableware from traditional hard tack cracker dough. Both inspired ideas with legs.

We may see more of these kinds of edible packaging fairly quickly as it is already common to find cornstarch utensils instead of plastic. The biodegradable packages are quickly improving, but the futuristic image of a zero trash food world isn't likely to come soon. Not while labelling and marketing has such a hold over our store shelves anyway.

DOG DAYS OF SUMMER

FUN ACTIVITIES FOR YOU AND YOUR PET

Discover the joy of being active with your canine companion. Try some of these fun activities:

- 1 Go for a walk. Sounds basic, but many pet owners don't make it a daily practice. "Behaviour problems and obesity — the No. 1 medical problem for dogs — can arise from inadequate exercise," says Dr. Deji Odetoyinbo, a veterinarian with a busy urban practice in Toronto and 12 years experience in emergency medicine.
- 2 Play fetch. Whether you use balls, squeak toys or some other retrievable object, many dogs love fetching. "Dogs are social animals and retrieving something is an interaction that's mentally gratifying and intensely rewarding."
- 3 Go for a swim. Dogs generally like water, but swimming comes with a few caveats. "Not every breed should be allowed in water — bulldogs in particular," Odetoyinbo says. "Make sure the current is safe. And remember that floating algae can be deadly, so if the water has a blue-green film, keep your dog out."

4 Go for obedience training. This is especially important for younger dogs, but even old dogs can learn new tricks. "It's also a good way to solidify the bond between pet and owner."

5 Take your dog visiting. A well-behaved dog can do wonders for seniors and those with developmental disabilities. "Talk to your vet first to ensure your dog has the right temperament and is free of communicable health problems, since some people you encounter may be immune-compromised," Odetoyinbo says.

GEM PHOTOGRAPHY/VEER

- 6 Go on vacation. "Just make sure to take along first aid items, medications and food (in case you can't get your regular brand where you are going). Give your dog plenty of bathroom breaks, water and cool air while driving. Ensure immunizations are up to date and check that your destination is pet friendly."

IOFOTO/VEER

STRETCHING YOUR LEGS WITH YOUR FOUR-LEGGED FRIEND

To keep walks happy, comfortable and safe, here is a quick list of things to consider when you are out and about with your four-legged friend this summer, compiled with the help of Dr. Deji Odetoyinbo, a Toronto veterinarian with 12 years experience in emergency medicine.

Plan your route. It's easy to head out, then find that you have gone too far and your pet is struggling. "Especially short-faced breeds like pugs and bulldogs can suffer severe respiratory distress if they're exercised on hot days," Odetoyinbo says.

Stay on the grass. Concrete or paved surfaces can cause burned foot pads if you are walking on a hot day. "Staying on a path or grassy surface will keep paws cooler and act as better cushioning for a dog's joints."

Go early or late. "Many dogs keep going until they drop, so it's important to ensure they don't get overheated. Walk early or late in the day when it's cooler."

Take a leash. "Even if you're headed to an off-leash zone, your pet should be leashed en route." Not all dogs are well-behaved in the dog park, so it's best to be able to leash your pet if it or other dogs it is playing with are acting up.

Carry enough poop bags. One dog, one bag, right? Wrong! You may need extras since some dogs go multiple times — or someone else in the park might be stuck. "Three bags is a good number," Odetoyinbo says.

Don't forget water. Most dogs aren't trained to drink out of a bottle. "There are great collapsible containers that double as a dispenser that are handy and easy to carry." Check your local pet store.

Patrick Kane tapped home the tying goal as Chicago rallied from a second-period deficit to snap the defending Stanley Cup champions' 15-game home-winning streak dating all the way back to March. Bryan Bickell had a goal and an assist for the top-seeded Blackhawks, who took a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven series.

Slava Voynov and Dustin Penner scored for the Kings, who had won their first eight playoff games at Staples Center. The champs are in trouble after Jonathan Quick failed to match Corey Crawford, who made 19 saves.

Game 5 is Saturday night in Chicago.

The Blackhawks won without top defenceman Duncan Keith, who served a one-game suspension for high-sticking Jeff Carter in the face during the second period of Game 3. Keith easily is the Hawks' ice-time leader and top-scoring defenceman, but Sheldon Brookbank filled in while Chicago played strong team defence in front of Crawford, who has matched the Conn Smythe Trophy winner in the other net.

"You miss a defenceman like Duncan Keith, he is the guy who plays the most on the blue-line," Hossa said. "When you miss him, someone else has to step up, and our guys did." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NBA Finals. Wily San Antonio still has James' number for one night as Heat drop opener

The San Antonio Spurs returned to the NBA Finals just the way they left — with a victory over LeBron James.

Tim Duncan overcame a slow start to finish with 20 points and 14 rebounds, Tony Parker banked in a desperation jumper with 5.2 seconds left and the Spurs withstood James' triple-double to beat the Miami Heat 92-88 on Thursday night in a thrilling Game 1.

Parker ended up with 21 points after referees reviewed his shot to make sure it beat the shot clock, giving San Antonio a four-point edge in a game that was close the whole way.

James had 18 points, 18 rebounds and 10 assists in his second straight NBA Finals triple-double, but he shot only 7 of 16 against some good defence by Kawhi Leonard, and Miami's offence stalled in the fourth quarter.

Playing for the championship for the first time since sweeping James' Cleveland Cavaliers in 2007, the Spurs improved to 5-for-5 in finals Game 1s, hanging around for three quarters and then blowing by the defending champions midway through the fourth.

Manu Ginobili, the third member of San Antonio's Big Three that has combined for 99 post-season win together, finished with 13 points, and Danny Green had 12.

Game 2 is Sunday night.

James became a champion on this floor last year in Game 5 against Oklahoma City.

But the Spurs swept his Cavaliers in 2007 and James spoke Wednesday like someone who had payback in mind. He was 22 then, a fourth-year player headed for greatness but with holes in his game that San Antonio exploited in a four-game sweep. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tigers' right-hander Scherzer a sure thing so far in 2013

Max Scherzer struck out nine in seven innings to remain unbeaten, and Victor Martinez homered and drove in three runs to lift the Detroit Tigers to a 5-2 victory over the Tampa Bay Rays on Thursday.

Scherzer (8-0) allowed a run and four hits, walking two. He is the first Detroit pitcher to start the season 8-0 since Jeremy Bonderman in 2007.

Joaquin Benoit allowed a run in the eighth, and Jose Valverde pitched a perfect ninth for his seventh save in nine chances.

Quick healing

"I feel confident in my body and the way it's been responding."

Redskins QB Robert Griffin III said Thursday "without a doubt" that he expects to be fully recovered from knee surgery and in uniform when training camp starts on July 25 in Richmond, Va.

French Open. Serena, Maria set up 1-2 final Done with a dominating performance in the French Open semifinals, Serena Williams climbed the stairs leading from the locker-room to the players' lounge, looking to give her mother a hug.

Smiling widely all the while, Williams greeted visitors, posed for photos and signed autographs on her way.

It's been more than a decade since she was so happy — and played so well — this deep in the tournament at Roland Garros.

Coming as close to perfect as seems possible, Williams absolutely overwhelmed last year's runner-up, fifth-seeded Sara Errani of Italy, 6-0, 6-1 in a mere 46 minutes Thursday to reach the final for the first time since winning her lone French Open championship in 2002.

"It doesn't seem like that long ago," Williams said, "even though it was."

To collect her 16th Grand Slam title Saturday, Williams will need to beat defending champion Maria Sharapova, who put aside 11 double-faults and got past third-seeded Victoria Azarenka 6-1, 2-6, 6-4 in a much more competitive semifinal.

Serena Williams GETTY IMAGES

The final features the top two women in the rankings and seedings, No. 1 Williams and No. 2 Sharapova. They are two of three active women with more than two major championships; Sharapova completed a career Grand Slam in Paris last year.

Williams has won a career-best 30 consecutive matches, the longest single-season streak on tour since 2000. Sharapova has won 13 consecutive matches in Paris. But this one doesn't shape up as much of an even matchup with Williams 13-2 against Sharapova, including winning the last 12.

Horoscopes

Aries

March 21 - April 20

Try not to let your anxieties get the better of you. As Neptune turns retrograde in the most sensitive area of your chart today, you may see problems where none exist. Act as if life is wonderful — and it will be.

Taurus

April 21 - May 21

Today's events will encourage you to believe that all things are possible. But they could also tempt you to take foolish risks, so think before you act. If you make a mistake, fix it.

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

Keep things simple today. Also, tread carefully when dealing with employers and other important people. They may see you as a threat and try to clip your wings.

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

The planets warn you should watch what you say today, especially if you are one of those Cancerians who tend to speak before fully engaging your brain. You are entitled to your opinion but others are just as entitled to disagree.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

You will act on impulse quite a bit over the next 24 hours. Just be careful you don't say anything that could have a negative financial impact.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

Your emotions may be raging but you are determined not to let anyone know about it. That's probably a good move, because if your rivals realize how deep your feelings are, they may exploit them.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

Don't let your responsibilities weigh you down. It does not matter how much work you have to do or how far behind you are in your schedule, you must remain cheerful.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

Others may give in to despair today but no way are you going to let it affect you. In fact, the more those around you indulge in feelings of doom and gloom, the more you will laugh at them.

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

Don't feel guilty about what happens to others. You are not responsible for the world and its woes and those who say you are should be laughed at loud and long.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

Neptune's apparent change of direction in the travel area of your chart will leave you a bit confused about what you should be doing and where you should be going. The good news is there's no need to rush.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

You may think you know what is going on but the planets warn you are missing an important piece of the puzzle and it could cost you money. Whatever else you do today, don't take chances.

Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

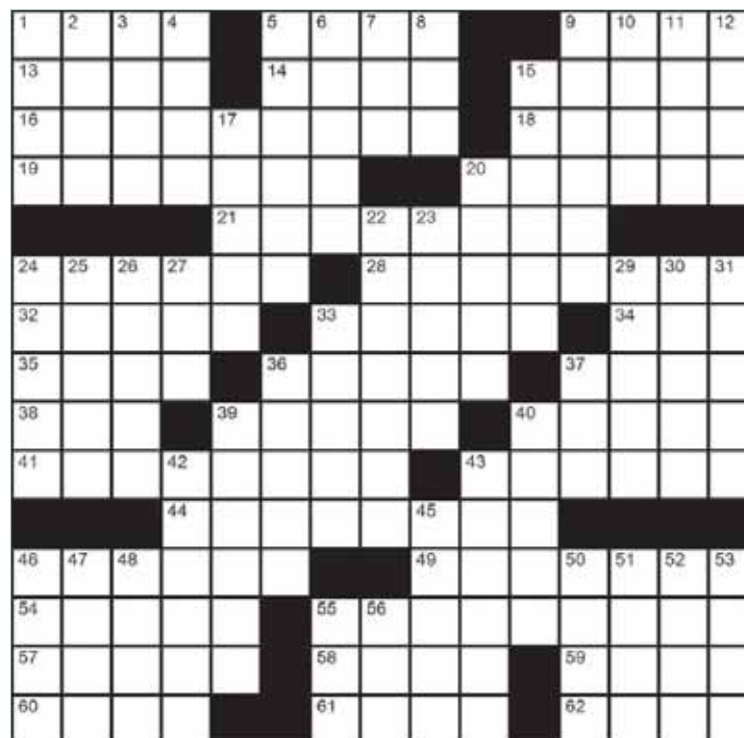

Neptune, your ruler, begins one of its retrograde phases today. Don't be surprised if important issues seem to move in the opposite direction of where you want them to.
